

The Value of Hawai'i
Knowing the Past, Shaping
the Future
Edited by Craig Howes and Jon Osorio

At a time when new solutions need to be found, the thirty-one contributors to The Value of Hawai'i outline the causes of our current state and offer points of departure for a Hawai'i-wide debate on our future, on topics ranging from homelessness to transportation, sustainability to sovereignty, education, the economy, and more. Please visit our website for more information http://thevalueofhawaii.word press.com

Published by UH Press in association with the Center for Biographical Research

Friday, 09/3/10
12:30pm-2pm
Saunders Hall 624

This event is free and open to the public.

Co-sponsored with the UHM
Center for Biographical Research, Hawai'i Council for the Humanities, UHM English Department, and UHM Women's Studies Department.

The Value of Hawai'i: Knowing the Past, Shaping the Future

UHM Women's Studies Colloquium Fall 2010

A Panel Presentation by:

This panel presentation features several contributors of the new book The Value of Hawai'i and demonstrates that strong, intelligent, and impressive women leaders are active in a wide range of fields in Hawai'i. Panelists illustrate how women's issues are intertwined with everyone's issues, and show that women play integral roles in sustaining what we value about Hawai'i at every level.

Kat Brady is Coordinator of Community Alliance on Prisons, a community initiative promoting smart justice strategies for Hawai'i's lawbreakers for more than a decade.

Meda Chesney-Lind is Professor of Women's Studies at the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa, and the author of numerous books on imprisonment in the United States.

Mari Matsuda is author of two of the hundred most-cited law review articles in the United States. She is a founder of Critical Race Theory, a professor of law, and a proud product of Hawai'i public schools.

D. Kapua'ala Sproat is an Assistant Professor at the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa's William S. Richardson School of Law, where she teaches courses and provides program support for Ka Huli Ao Center for Excellence in Native Hawaiian Law and the Environmental Law Program.